

SISTER CHARLENE DIORKA

Charlene Diorka is a Sister of Saint Joseph of Philadelphia and currently serves as President of Mount Saint Joseph Academy in Flourtown, PA. Sister Charlene holds an undergraduate degree in Elementary Education and a master's degree in Theology. She has been involved in Catholic education since 1982 on both the elementary and high school levels. She enjoys being a life-long learner.

With firm roots in the Sisters of Saint Joseph for 40 years, Sister Charlene has served as both Vocation and Formation Director for her congregation. She also ministered as the Associate Director of the National Religious Vocation Conference in Chicago, IL. Likewise, she has worked with the formation of young women leaders from religious congregations around the country for leadership development for the future of religious life. Sister Charlene is a trained facilitator and values finding God in all things and enjoys journeying with others as they deepen their spiritual life.

Most importantly, Sister Charlene lives and works toward her congregational mission that all may be one. She does that in the spirit of Saint Joseph, their patron, with gentle and courageous leadership.
